

An emotional lift from the crowd can help ignite a football team to victory.

The difficult task of keeping fans at a fever pitch comes from the cheerleaders, a hardworking and dedicated group of students.

This small but vocal group adds greatly to the color and entertainment of a Princeton University football game.

On their own initiative they help promote intercollegiate athletics with many creative and novel ideas. Their contributions are a vital support weapon to the athletic program.